The Andover Controversy. The decision of the board of visitors of Andover Theological Seminary has gone against Prof. Smyth, the head of the institution, who was arraigned for teaching theology at variance with the standards of the Congregational Church on the question of probation after death as regards those who have not had opportunity to know and embrace the gospel in this life. This controversy grew out of the mesting of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Church several months ago, wherein it was charged that young men had been sent out from the Seminary as missionsries who did not hold to the Westminster Catechism as respects the lost condition of such of the human race as were not saved before death by a compliance with the conditions of the gospel, but on the contrary held that the heathen might enjoy a period of probation in the next life, and that their final state might not be determined until they had enjoyed this

It was charged that this is heresy, and that it is subversive of the fundamental idea of the Church in sending out missionries at all to heathen lands, for if the heathen are to have a chance in the next life why seek to convert them in this life.

The special point brought out in the trial of Prof. Smyth was that the original endowment of the Seminary was beshould teach the strict theology of the Westminster Confession on this and other points of faith, and that the faith of the donors as respects the heathen was embodied in the following article of the Con- of time to the weather,

That Adam, the federal head and representative of the human race, was placed in a state of probation, and that in consequence of his disobedience all his descendants were constituted sinners; that by nature every man is personally deprayed, destitute of holinesa, unlike and opposed to God, and that previously to the renewing agency of the Divine Spirit all his moral actions are adverse to the character and glory of God; that, being morally ining agency of the Divine Spirit all his moral sctions are adverse to the character and glory of God; that, being morally incapable of recovering the image of his Greator, which was lost in Adam, every man is justly exposed to eternal damnation, so that except a man be born again he cannot see the Kingdom of God; that God, of His mere good pleasure, from all eternity, elects some to everlasting life, and that He entered into a covenant of grace to deliver them out of this siste of sin and misery by a Redeemer; that perseverance in holiness is the only method of making our calling and election sure; that they who are effectually called do in this life partake of justification, adoption and sanctification, and the several benefits which do either secompany or flow from them; that the souls of believers are at their death made perfect in holiness and do immediately pass into glory, but that the wicked will awake to shame and everlasting contempt, and with devils be plunged into the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone forever and ever.

It was not denied on the part of the defense that this article of the occae, literately interpreted, did teach what was claimed, viz: the hopeless condition of all, including the heathon, who died without including the heathon in th including the heathen, who died without having been "born again" in this life. But Prof. Smyth claimed that his teachings with reference to this dogma were in "the well understood and commonly "the well understood and commonly corporal punishment. Fourth, expulsion recognised laws of creed acceptance," and did not no violence to it. He did not hold that the heathen absolutely would This is his first visit, educationally, to or that the creed was scriptural, and that it did not admit of the latitude of interpreta tion claimed for it. So, accordingly, Prof. Smyth was found guilty of heretical teaching, and will be deposed unless the an peal, which he has taken, to the courts countermands the finding of the Board o Visitors.

This trial and its result is one of the religious bpisodes of our day. It need not be argued that the finding will not be endorsed by the intelligence of the American religious public. Whatever people may profess to believe they in reality do not hold to a doctrine that shocks the instinct of common justice, as this doctrine certainly does. The result will simply hasten the day when such a dogma, like that of infant damnation, will be relegated to the dead theology of the past.

Following McGlynn. Mr. D. O. Loughlin, editor of the New York Catholic Herald, a paper which is under the ban for supporting Dr. Me-Glynn, has no doubt that the followers of McGlynn will be excommunicated along with their chief, but that those so excom municated "are not bound to respect the excommunication if it is not done for good

The weak spot in the case of those who think with Mr. Loughlin is, that they are not the judges of sufficiency of the reasons. Rome says who is to be excom municated and for what reasons, and Rome is the highest authority. Of course any man may refuse to recognize that au- Fit cases, Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phile, Pa.

thority, but when he does that he ceases to be a Roman Catholic.

If this will satisfy McGlynn and his followers and is what they have been looking for, it would have been more manly for them to draw out of the church without waiting to be kicked out for causing a world-wide scandal.

As we understand the question, the Pope of Rome cannot compel anybody to recognize him as the head of the church recognize him as the head of the church and to submit to his authority. But the Pope of Rome can say who are membe of the church in good standing, and if McGlynn and his followers are still the loyal Catholics they profess to be, it will aske some difference to them when they find they have been read out. It will certainly make some difference to the rank and file of those whom McGlynn has led into rebellion.

Wheeling has adopted a street paveme which, under right conditions, is the best yet devised. It is comparatively cheap, easily and cheaply kept in repair, affords easy hauling to heavy teams and produces no jolting, and will last indefinitely. But it is of the highest importance that the conditions be right. The brick must be all in. conditions be right. The brick must be of good material hard-burned, well laid on a substantial foundation, well coated with tar and gravel.

It is not enough to coat the brick once for all. The coating should be renewed as fast as it wears off, for the wear should be on the coating, not on the surface of the to the stoop line. brick. The first consideration is that the brick shall be kept dry and closely bound into a solid mazs. Water must be kept from contact with the face of the brick and from finding its way through the interstices into the foundation. The pavement already laid will make clear what we wish to illustrate. Where the coating is still intact the street is in good, almost unimpaired, condition. Where the coating is worn off the paving shows wear on the brick, and the longe the exposure the more rapid the wear.

Wheeling is putting her pride and he noney into a system of street improve ment which is attracting the attention of the country. A very little outlay as com fice to keep the new streets in first-class condition, always sightly, always ready to ender the service expected of them.

The INTELLIGENCER's suggestion to the Board of Public Works is, that the surface of the brick pavement and as far down between the bricks as the tar will reach queathed to it on the condition that it be kept covered with tar and gravel. It would be well worth the cost to keep a sufficient force of men for this purpose renewing the coating so that the brick may never be exposed for any length contact with the hoofs of horses and the wheels of vehicles. Wherever there is a hare spot let it be swept clean ; with steel brooms and the tar and gravel put on. Thus treated the brick bid not no violence to it. He did not hold that the heathen absolutely would but simply that they might have a chance in the next life, asseng they had no chance in this one. In other words, in fitting out young men for the ministry, he did not teach them that the heathen would be certainly lost unless the gospel was preached to them and they obeyed it in this life. This, the prosecution held, he should have taught.

It was further urged on the part of the defense that the decirine of the creed, literally interpreted, was repulsive to the heathen, for they had great reverence for the memory of their ancestors, and were not willing to conceds the justice of sending them to a place of torment simply because they had not had the proper chance in this life.

There was much more that was curious and interesting on both sides brought forward in the cause of the proceedution, was that the creed was scriptural, and that it.
